HOMA KONI,

The Sierra Nevada Tribal Summit is a premier gathering that amplifies Indigenous leadership, knowledge systems, and guardianship in the Sierra Nevada Bioregion. Since time immemorial, Indigenous peoples of the Sierra Nevada have tended and lived in harmony with thriving ecosystems through practices rooted in respect, balance, and reciprocity. Today, Indigenous voices remain a powerful force for the well-being of the Sierra and planet—offering solutions that bridge traditional knowledge with today's challenges.

The Sierra Nevada Tribal Summit is a dynamic gathering of Indigenous leaders, elders, and youth dedicated to advancing land and water guardianship, cultural resilience, and policy change. This intergenerational event centers Indigenous ecological and economic worldviews, fosters collaboration, and builds momentum for meaningful action.

Attendees will engage in thought-provoking discussions, working groups, and cultural exchanges—all designed to strengthen Indigenous leadership in land stewardship, governance, and community well-being. The summit will also provide critical space for Tribal Nations to build relationships and align efforts in support of Indigenous Protected and Conserved Areas (IPCAs) and land tenure, the rights of nature, including our non-human relatives, environmental justice, and cultural sovereignty.

Sponsorship of the Sierra Nevada Tribal Summit is an investment in Indigenous leadership, knowledge, and solutions for a thriving future for us all. Join us in supporting this vital convening and the ongoing work of Indigenous communities safeguarding the Sierra Nevada for generations to come.
